Pertinent Paragraphs

If you're interested in gardening — and almost who isn't — then you'd enjoy seeing a film on said subject which is available to your lodge, club, or organization, free of charge, from the Lemon Grove Hardware Co. Ask Jack Sanders about it!

The story behind the egg back of the fountain at Lindley's Pharmacy — Weight: just a hair under a half pound, and a little larger than a goose egg. Origin: one of Fred Lyda's hens laid it and right away died. Moral: don't wait until you're ready to kick off before you do your best work. Warning: Hurry up and look it over — it may not be there very long — because Bob's diet calls for ONE egg for breakfast, and Mrs. Lindley is having a tough time keeping it in the store for display purposes.

If a Lion offers you a ticket to Saturday night's shindig at the VFW hall, grab it before he changes his mind. Tis rumored great things are in store for that evening.

Dealing in rumors — you hear the latest? Business will really boom now that the business men are getting up before breakfast. Tuesdays anyhow.

Speaking of rumors, must have been something to the one recently heard about the Review changing hands, even though at the time we first heard it, it was rumor alone. If present plans materialize, Mr. John P. Pletschet of 8131 Whitsett Avenue, Los Angeles, California, will take over the reigns from the present publishers. Net result will be a better newspaper for Lemon Grove. Mr. Pletschet's wider and more specialized experience is assurance of this.

History of Library Shows Growth And Progress

Effective this week the Lemon Grove Library is providing extra hours on Thursdays to accomodate school children who attend school during the morning sessions. The doors are opened at 11:00 a. m. instead of the usual 2:00 p. m.

Lemon Grove's free public library is located on Golden Avenue, just east of Imperial.

The original location was at the corner of Main and Central, where the first Lemon Grove library opened on June 30, 1913.

J. B. Hoover became the first librarian, and was succeeded at his death in 1925 by his wife.

It was at this time that the library was moved to its present quarters on Golden Avenue.

Mary Whitman was in charge from November 1934 to June 1936, when Mrs. Lena Eckler was appointed.

In 1948 the floor space of the library was practically doubled in its present location, by A. F. Sonka, owner of the building.

According to Mrs. Eckler, this is the third largest library in the county. It contains 3988 volumes, and almost every popular magazine is available.

This is a request library, where one may request a book and receive it when available. At present, 3200 to 3800 books are loaned each month.

New books arrive frequently, 150 having been received Wednesday morning.

Regular hours for the library are as follows:

Monday	2 P. M. to 5 P. M.
Tuesday	2 P. M. to 5 P. M.
Wednesday	2 P. M. to 7 P. M.
Thursday	11 A. M. to 5 P. M.
Friday	2 P. M. to 5 P. M.
Saturday	2 P. M. to 7 P. M.

Nelson, auditor; and the board of directors as follows: Mrs. Joseph Galen, Mrs. Gordon Boltz, Mrs. Leonard Rosenlof, Mrs. Vernon Mathews and Mrs. Thomas Hanson.

Van Gilse Resigns; Monterey Heights School Approved

The Lemon Grove Board of Education met Tuesday, February 8, at 7:30 in the school office.

S. E. Solleder, principal, submitted a report on plans for a parents' handbook for kindergarten children's activities, with pictures, etc., which was approved.

Furniture has been ordered for the new Vista La Mesa school and assurance given it will be delivered March 1. Mr. Paul Reynolds, business manager for the school, has compiled a list of other furnishing needs for office, nurse's quarters, etc., and this list was approved by the board.

Superintendent Byron L. Netzley was authorized to attend the national convention of the American Association of School Administrators in San Francisco, February 21, 22 and 23. This is usually held in Atlantic City. Outstanding speakers will take part and the latest school legislation will be explained.

Some applications have been received for janitor for the new school, but more applications will be considered. The position will pay from $175.00 to $200.00 per month, depending on the applicant's experience.

The contractor building the new school announced that due to bad weather, he will need a small extension of time beyond March 1, to finish the building.

The State Finance Department has approved the bid of Mr. C. F. Van Gunden for the Monterey Heights school, and construction may begin there as soon as documents are signed.

The County Supervisors will hold a hearing March 7, and if there is no opposition, Bakers field and Taft Streets will be closed in that area.

Plans were studied and approved for future building at the Lemon Grove school site. The State funds formerly granted are about depleted and applications for more are being prepared.

As he is moving out of the Lemon Grove school district, J. A. Van Gilse presented his resignation from the board. County Superintendent John Carroll will appoint his successor.

FORWARD CLUB CLEARS SEWER INDEBTEDNESS

The Forward Club held a special directors' meeting Tuesday morning and their president, Mrs. Ted Haaf, announced that as a result of this meeting, all the bonded indebtedness on the sewer installations for the club is paid in full.

First Call For Breakfast for Business Men

Last Tuesday February 8, the Lemon Grove Business Men's Association held their last luncheon at the Golf and Country Club. The membership in general voted in favor of a weekly breakfast meeting starting next Tuesday morning at 6:45 (say quarter to seven — doesn't sound half as bad), in the basement of the Congregational Church.

Mrs. Leah Donohue volunteered to act as cateress, thereby relieving the membership of the unhappy prospect of getting their own breakfasts. (B-r-r-r-r that was close.)

It is felt that the BMA is anticipating a new lease on life with the change in meeting place and hours. For many of us, it has been hard to get away for two hours in the middle of the day. The breakfast meeting will break up promptly at 8:00 a. m.

Present plans are to invite the Lemon Grove Lion's Club to roar down on us and help initiate our breakfast club, and a letter to this effect will be sent to the Lion secretary, Mr. C. Forrest Baxter. In the interests of closer cooperation between these two clubs, each of which has largely the same membership, it is hoped that a large roar will be heard.

Other groups in turn will be invited to the Breakfast Club, but it is not necessary to wait for this invitation. If you are at all interested in the business or welfare of your community, by all means join us at breakfast. The welcome mat is always out for you at the Business Men's Club.

In the nature of another transfusion came the election by the membership of Bob Murphy and Hugh Shields to fill the vacancies recently created on the board of directors. Both are comparative "newcomers" to Lemon Grove, but both are willing and active workers for the bettesment of the community. There were four members nominated from the floor, the other two being J. G. Stewart and W. C. Nienabor. You just can't bea the democratic way of handlir things, can you?

Don't forget next Tuesday morning at quarter to seven, you have a date for breakfast at the Congregational Church. See you then.

—Paul J. Duley, Secretary

Ceramics, Textile Painting Classes Proving Popular

Approximately 30 Lemon Grove women are taking a course in Ceramics and Textile-painting in the basement of the Community Congregational Church each Tuesday from 9:00 a. m. to 1:00 p. m.

The place is a bee hive of activity with ladies working at several tables in various rooms of the building. The ceramics class seems to be the most popular, although some of the ladies are doing textile painting.

Many were working on little heart shaped boxes with covers adorned with flowers. Several ladies were industriously rolling out clay (not pie crust) with rolling pins. The petals are then shaped and assembled to form beautiful flowers.

A few were modeling figurines and one lady was making animals of clay.

Mrs. Fritter and her sister Mrs. Such are on hand to assist all with their problems.

In the textile painting class, several were decorating pillow-slips and lunch cloths. One lady was painting a huge rose design on suede paper, which will be beautifully framed and hung on her living room wall.

Mrs. Fritter also teaches a class in textile painting at the Vista La Mesa Christian Church each Monday evening from 6:00 to 10:00 p. m. There is room in each class for a few more ladies to receive instructions.

The classes are given through the adult education department, and pupils pay only for materials used. Either of these arts make a very interesting hobby.

A Talk With Parents

by L. E. McGee

The next few weeks will be devoted to letters from parents. Signatures will be omitted if requested.

Ed. note: This letter is from a reader of another newspaper in which this column appears.

The first letter follows:

Gentlemen:

I've been reading your paper consistently since it first appeared and wish to compliment you on not only its very fine appearance, but the interesting columns by local people.

Being the mother of a fifteen year old son I've been particularly interested in Mr. McGee's column, and think he has a splendid understanding of juvenile problems and how they should be handled.

I don't believe in corporal punishment, but any mother knows there are times when it is the only solution to the problem at the time. Most children can be reasoned with, but there are times when more stringent methods must be used.

One would not like to think it necessary for children to be reprimanded at school by such methods, but when children are not getting the proper discipline at home, as is often the case, or children try to 'get away' with things at school that they wouldn't be able to at home, the teachers should have some authority to do so. However, I imagine that the children properly trained at home behave at school, and that if inquiries were made one would find that to be the case.

My son's deportment at school, according to his report cards, and from conversations with his teachers, has been excellent, but he has had necessary disciplining when needed at home. However, if one talks to police officers, proprietors of stores, and others who come in contact with children today, they will tell you how impudent and destructively mischievious they are. It is my personal belief that it is due to too little parental disciplining, which could be augmented by teachers when necessary to bring about needed respect for people and their property, which is sadly lacking.

Hoping you'll continue with Mr. McGee's helpful columns, I am,

Sincerely yours,
(name witheld as requested)

Thank you very much. Your common-sense method has been working for hundreds of years. As long as it isn't used as a cure all, corporal punishment is beneficial to normal children.

Teachers, as well as parents, should have the authority to use it at their discretion.

Next week the letter will be from a parent with opposing views.

L. A. Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Baxter of Buena Vista Street motored to Los Angeles Sunday and were dinner guests of Mr. Baxter's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Baxter.

While there they went to the station and met Mrs. Baxter's mother, Mrs. N. M. Sharpe, of Kansas City, Missouri. They also met Mrs. Baxter's cousin, Mrs. Nettie Vane, of Salem, Oregon, and brought both ladies back to Lemon Grove to be their guests.

HAVE MOVED INTO NEW HOME

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bame and son have moved into their new home at 7146 Central Avenue. Mr. Bame is a retired Navy man and chose Lemon Grove as the place he preferred to make his permanent home.

His mother, Mrs. John A. Bame, flew here from Newcastle, Pennsylvania, recently. Mr. John A. Bame has been here assisting with the building of the new home, in which they will all live.

The area of the continental U. S. is 3,728,393 square miles.

"EASY DOES IT"

WHEN cooking cereal which must remain in the double boiler overnight, pour a half cup of water over it. This prevents a hard crust from forming. In the morning, pour off the water and reheat the cereal.

Apples have thin skins and do not need to be peeled when you make sauce. You'll get more vitamins and flavor if you just quarter them and cook in barely enough water. After putting them through a sieve, add the sweetening.

To give vegetable soup an interesting flavor, add two or three whole cloves while cooking it. Discard the cloves just before serving.

RECIPE

Cinnamon Apple Salad
(Serves 6)

6 apples
½ cup red cinnamon candies
¼ cup sugar
2 cups water
2 tablespoons broken nut meats
10 dates, pitted and chopped
½ cup diced pineapple
¼ cup salad dressing

Pare and core apples. Cook candies and sugar in water until dissolved; add whole apples and cook slowly until transparent but not soft. Chill. Stuff centers with combined remaining ingredients. Serve on lettuce.

To reheat leftover meat, place it in a heavy iron skillet, cover completely with lettuce leaves and place in a moderate oven. The meat keeps its flavor and moisture when warmed in this way.

Turnips will not taste as strong if they are cooked with a few white potatoes. Mash the potatoes with them before serving.

Cook macaroni and spaghetti in a colander placed in a pot of boiling salted water. You won't have to stir it or be worried about having it boil over or have it stick.

Never use a rolling pin back and forth when making pie crust. Roll away from you, lifting the pin each time as the crust will be more flaky.

Spiced vinegar from sweet mixed pickles should be saved and used in salad dressing to perk it up. It's especially good for potato salad.

Save the water in which you cook or can asparagus and use for a thin white sauce for other vegetables or as a soup base. There are lots of minerals in it.

Incidents Bring Accidents

by Dr. Frank Weege, D. C.

It is a well known fact that habits are responsible for a great many avoidable accidents. But before going into the explanation of this, let us talk about this otherwise friendly sounding word HABIT.

The heart of humanity does not change. The only change is in the method by which our hearts' desires are attained. From century to century, in development and in decay, the same emotions rule.

Of all the influences that make or unmake man, excepting of course the established influences of heredity, those of habit are unquestionably predominant. In the determination of character, personality, disposition, inclination, urge, conduct, behavior, eccentricities and peculiarities, habit is the most potent factor for good or evil, for health or disease.

Habits become more fixed the longer they are practiced. Animals are dominated by instinct and man by thoughts or feelings set in motion by certain laws of action and reaction. Naturally, man is inclined to follow along lines of least resistance in his reactions to the law of self-preservation, and habit is formed by the endeavor to become at ease, adjusted to environment, or to the impulse that results from the association of ideas.

Native pride and the ego stimulate imitation as well as initiative and originality. Imitative habits are acquired early in life because of a desire to emulate those whose behavior appeals to us as worthy; as in the case of a boy whose early endeavors are to duplicate the actions of a father whom he believes to represent the highest virtues. Contact and environment thus influence the entire life of the boy in the same general trend or direction as that of the father.

If the mother happens to be the dominating influence in the boy's life, and if his temperament and hereditary characteristics are those of the mother, her conduct will have a stronger appeal, even though the father may measure up more favorably to the ideal created in the young mind, be the ideal one of intelligence, character, and superior moral fiber, or of heroic build and physical prowess.

A calf keeps in close touch with its mother, primarily because it is at first a parasite and must of necissity remain near must of necessity remain near close association of the calf and the cow establishes in the offspring the same habits that form the routine of the mother. The same places for shade, for shelter, for grazing, for rustling. The same beaten path to and from given points, the same place at the edge of the stream or the tank from which to drink.

At about the same time of the day the cow is impelled to seek relief from an overfull udder or go to the feeding spot for its customary ration. In time, the calf becomes the cow with habits easily traceable to the mother association and influence. Most other animals follow the same general trend, and instinct directs habit throughout the life of the animal.

In man, however, instinct ceases to be the sole activating force as soon as reason is awakened. The infant begins to establish instinctive habits from the first moment of birth. During the final culminating moment of the mother's travail the law of self-preservation becomes immediately operative. There is an agonizing moment and an awakened awareness of impending fatality.

A cry, as if prompted by anguish, occurs simultaneously with the first expansion of the lungs, the first breath. The sudden outcry, which is the involuntary expression of a sense of pain, registers in the subconscious mind through the vocal and auditory mechanisms as the medium by which this animate being preserves itself — retains its life.

The mind associates the pain or fear with the noise of outcry and these impressions remain ever after as a stimulus induced by pain and the protective reaction to an outcry. To the instinct of self-preservation is soon added the instinctive desire for comfort. The desire to live, as far as the child's perception goes, was fulfilled through the instrumentality of the vocal effort.

As a most natural sequence, comfort must be attained by the same means. Restlessness or incoordinated muscular efforts are of themselves unproductive of desired results. More crying brings the nurse or mother whose activities and handling lead to warmth and comfort, a state of repose is induced.

A few hours later another kind of unrest or desire manifests itself in the form of hunger. The law of self-preservation makes insistent demands and an outcry is again utilized as the only means to a desired end.

Habits are established which even thus early in life may be indulged or restricted, shaped, and determined, in accordance with the responsiveness or restrictiveness of the nurse or mother.

These definitely established instinctive habits are by no means the only impressions that register in the subconsciousness of the infant. The emotion of fear results in reactions of a protective nature that have to do with the muscular system as well as the voice.

Careless handling brings about a frantic, panicky clutching for support to prevent injury by falling. A drowning man brings these same instinctive and characteristic acts into play because they are primary and have never been displaced.
